DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 8 is objected to because of the following informalities: The phrase “by design” can cause a 112 2nd indefiniteness issue. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 8-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Critten et al (4,173,149).

In regards to claim 8, Critten et al teaches the pressure difference sensor having a first half-chamber (i.e. cavity) defining a first volume; a first separating membrane (3) for sealing the first half-chamber, and having a first membrane stiffness; a second half-chamber defining a second volume; a second separating membrane (5) for sealing the second-half chamber (i.e. cavity), and having a second membrane stiffness (Column 4, lines 3-16 & Column 5, line 67 – Column 6, line 12); and a measuring membrane which separates the first half-chamber is separated from the second half-chamber wherein: the first-half chamber is filled with a transfer liquid (i.e. oil) having a first coefficient of thermal expansion, and the second half-chamber is filled with a second transfer liquid having a second coefficient of thermal expansion (Column 15, lines 6-18); a first product of the first membrane stiffness, the first volume and the first coefficient of thermal expansion is essentially equal to a second product of the second membrane stiffness, the second volume and the second coefficient of thermal expansion; and at least one factor of the first product deviates, by design, from the corresponding factor of the second product (Column 4, lines 3-16).

Art Unit: 2855

With respect to claims 9-11, Critten et al teaches wherein the first membrane stiffness deviates from the second membrane stiffness and wherein the first volume deviates from the second volume (Column 4, lines 26-46).

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 12-14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

- U.S. Patent 4,612,812 (Broden) – Stress Reducing Stop for Unstretched Pressure Sensing Diaphragm
- U.S. Patent 4,086,815 (Asano et al) – Device for Use in Sensing Pressures

Art Unit: 2855

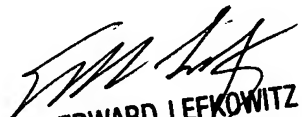

- U.S. Patent 5,804,735 (Biskup) – Differential Pressure Transducer Unit with an Overload Protection
